Harvard Overseers' Action
on Chafe's Book Shows Old University Is Still on Side of Freedom

By NORMAN HAPGOOD

Senior American Staff Correspondent

Washington, July 19.—In upholding

the recommendation of the committee to pass on "Freedom of Speech," the Harvard Overseers' action on Chafe's book has accomplished nothing except to put on record with renewed emphasis the fact that Harvard is a place in which the tradition of freedom is not easily overthrown.

The book has been thrown out of a number of libraries, by libraries or trustees, who have perhaps been reading the tale at night Vice-President Chafe's series of attacks on the amount of freedom of thought allowed in women's colleges. At these will now be made in these libraries

on the question of restoring the book to circulation.

The funniest thing in the Chafe case was an editorial in the "New York Times" which said that it happened in the following way:

CONNECTED WITH STILLMAN.

The reactionary trustees who got after Chafe were also after Dean

Stillman and Professor Frankfurter.

Therefore they put in a clause

against "outside activities."

The joke developed in the fact that one of the persons put on the committee was connected with Stillman not only in a business way, but also in that he was a well-known "outside activist."

"What the trustees meant by 'outside activities,' of course, was the fact taken by these law authorities

in attacking Palmerston, defending labor laws and making a study of municipal government.

Under the last head a situation is scheduled for next fall, when a series of studies made by Dean

Stillman, Professor Frankfurter, Raymond Purdie and a number of other experts into all branches of the government of Cleveland, O.

SOME RICH READING.

It is going to be rich reading, the

of the richest part of the history of the University. No part of the book here on Cleveland more than on other cities, except that it happened in the city chosen for investigation.

Meaning the vice-president has read his bill to arms in the Delinquency and I report that he was in the country to see an equally arid about the men's university.

If women are not to be allowed to think about the greatest question in the world—the industrial and economic question—it would seem to be fully appropriate for men to allow themselves to think in that direction

in that direction.

Here is the Vice-President's charge:

"Civilian rebel at the authority of teachers and parents, teachers rebel

at the authority of school boards,

faculty rebel at the authority of boards of trustees and the people rebel at the authority of government."

IS REBELLION JUSTIFIED.

In all this rebelling by college faculties and the people—some of it is called rebellion—justified is a country governed by the rule of

QUAINT PILGRIM PAGEANT OPENS TONIGHT AT PLYMOUTH

BIRTH OF PLYMOUTH. About the simple signing of the memorable edict aboard the Mayflower, a world of romance revolves. In this photo, depicting a scene from the Plymouth pageant, a faithful interpretation is given of Governor Carver and William Brewster.

THE VANGUARD! Picture yourself thousands of miles from home, on the sea of savages, and you know how these Pilgrims felt when they left their ship to take up a new life at Plymouth. The women were as intrepid as the men.

LET'S SMOKE UP! Mrs. James McHugh of Dorchester and her friend are wearing the latest in sport hats—with cute pocket for cigarettes and vanity case. Chapeau designed by Peggy Hoyt. (U. & U.)

WINIFED TAYLOR is sad. Sailed on Olympic for England without a husband. Came here looking for work, almost any garden variety. Did not get girls to have our troubles. (U. & U.)

UP FROM THE DEPTHS! All the wealth of Mrs. Angela G. Kaufman (right), Los Angeles philanthropist, will be at the command of little Miss Ernie Mulvan, fifteen (left), who faces a jury July 25 on the charge of murdering her baby. The child said that she was betrayed by a Kansas City banker and shipped to the West Coast. (Int.)

AND JOHN DID! John Alden (Joseph Hallings) tremblingly beseeching the comely Priscilla Mullens (Nancy Cole) to yield to his halting marriage plea. A charming pageant pose.

QUEENLY! The historical fidelity with which the pageant has been staged is exemplified in the beautiful garb of the French ambassador's wife (Louise Washburn). Observe the odd collar.

FLOATING MUSCLE! Howard Baker, high jump star in the Olympics, winning a championship at Stamford Bridge, London. Copied his style after London American star. Note his grace in the air. (W. W.)

WARMING UP! Colonel George Harvey, U. S. ambassador in England, forgot his dignified duties the other day and heeled the first ball for the game between the U. S. doughboys and the American tars. The British thought the game was "tipping," you know. The Col. usually shows his burlesque to words. (Int.)

THE FUTURE was uncertain for the Marshall family, as well as the rest of the Mayflower folk, when they left the little craft and stepped on Plymouth soil.

GOOD WORK! Willie Ogg, our own little Dorchester golfer, who outscored the old timers by defeating a classy field at the Shawnee (Dorchester) Country Club. Won a small open tournament. Shows making winning stroke. (Int.)

OH FLORENCE! Florence Long, dainty coast mermaid, is strongly short on costume, but that's the way of sea beauties. Checkered silk. Latest style, with pearl to match.

KEEP COOL, GIRLIE! This miniature three-bladed electric fan is ideal when folks get warm or excited. Miss Almers shows just how small and cute the fan is. Made of celluloid and operated by pressure of finger. Popular in theatres.

WHY PARIS GASPED! Mme. Ida Rubenstein, once the burning flame of d'Annunzio, startled the French capital by her interpretation of Cleopatra in a translation of Shakespeare's play by M. Andre Gide. Her conception of the "serpent of the Nile" is naive, to say the least. (W. W.)

SAFETY FIRST! So many experimenters and physicians have been burned in the handling of radium that preventive measures were inevitable. Photo shows a laboratory worker at the Memorial Hospital (N. Y.), handling radium emanation capsules, used in the treatment of cancer, behind a recently invented steel screen. This hospital has 4 grams, largest in any institution in country. (U. & U.)

IN REALITY MANY A RAW DEAL IS PRETTY WELL COOKED UP

BRAVES AND PIRATES BATTLE FOR LEAD IN FLAG RACE

By NICK FLATLEY
Everybody up for the little world's series of 1921. The flying Boston Braves and the leading Pittsburgh Pirates started a hectic engagement at Braves Field today. It is by far the most important series of this baseball year.

If the Braves can stay the Pirates—and as fan in this part of the world looks for a moment that they will—the Boston team will enter into the drive down the last half of the campaign decided favorites to bring a pennant to this part of the world.

The Braves play five games with the invaders, whose star, little Rube Marquardt, captured all his fame in Boston, whose shift made the Pittsburgh team contenders for the first time in years.

The players who come from Pittsburgh—Captain Southworth, Harbo and Nicholson—have been in the Braves machine, powerful, and since the battle started to climb not a regret has ever been heard for the passing of the wonderful shortstop.

Just now the Pirates are six games ahead of the Braves. A month ago they were a dozen. Just now the Braves are leading steadily, brilliant baseball, while the Pirates are showing signs of the strain. This series is sure to end in a close finish.

Let the Braves maintain the day after they have established some coming home. Let them lead the end of the work with the Pirates. Let the Braves win the flag race, while the Pirates are the victors of their evasive position.

In their contests thus far, the Pirates have a slight edge on the Braves, nothing to worry about. And the outcome of the series will be the result of the outcome of the series. They will continue, with a far stronger ball on this visit than the flag and game being played.

Most of the battles the Braves have won since starting their mad dash out of the pen. They have been the winners down and drag out the game. They have won the game, while the Pirates have been the losers. They have won the game, while the Pirates have been the losers.

MED BURY

Says Some People Like Operations So Well That If It Doesn't Hurt Them They Don't Enjoy It

It is a man comes out of an operation without any scars he thinks he has been cheated.

When they pay a doctor's bill they get something for their money.

A doctor always writes everything in Latin except his statement.

Of course they have to write prescriptions out in the same way and the bookkeepers have had to learn Latin.

A doctor has to go to college for five or six years to learn to tell you that you're not feeling well.

Every time you show him your tongue it costs you two dollars and a half.

You can save money by keeping your mouth shut.

He tells you to eat out cleanest and healthiest and you, they, eat what you want to eat.

But for that amount of money you get a lot of scars to mark your friends' jealousy.

The Mystery of the Cook's Pet Parrot

A PUNNY paper recently SLIPPED ME a good laugh. WITH A whoosh, about A FAMOUS mathematician, AND WHOSE had quit, THE VAL-VILLE dove, IT SAID he discovered, HE COULD make more facts, SELLING WOODEN parrots, SO WHEN I got home, I PASSED the joke, TO OUR cook, who owns, BOTH A, and a sense of humor, BUT SHE SAYS IT, BECAUSE SHE SAYS IT, WHAT A ventriloquist was, SO I had to explain it, AND ON the way out, I BLEW just a whiff, OF CIGARETTE smoke, AT HER amazing old, POOL of a parrot, WHICH NEVER talks, AND I said, "Well, HOW DO you like it?" AND TO this day, IT'S GOT me guessing, WHETHER IT was cook, OR the blazed bird, WHICH SQUAWKED back, "THEY AREN'T!"

CHESTERFIELD speak for themselves. They let you know you're smoking. They "satisfy" and yes, they're mild. An impossible combination, you say? Sure—everybody who smokes Chesterfields. The blend does it and the blend can't be copied!

FINANCE AND BUSINESS

By B. C. Forbes

"We have done as much business for this year as we did during the entire twelve months of last year."—in what line of business has this been achieved? In one of the industries that has not been very badly hit. In one of the industries which have suffered more than almost any other from the collapse in prices—rubber.

The writer is John A. MacMillan, president of the Dunlop Rubber Manufacturing Company. He tells not only what has been accomplished, but he tells how it has been done. It is gratifying to know that the daily reading of this column has helped. Says Mr. MacMillan: "I read every word of the Boston Herald and I am convinced that I want to thank you for your stimulating articles. We have been practicing exactly what you have been preaching, with the result that we have done as much business for this year as we did during the entire twelve months of last year."

"We are putting optimism and enthusiasm back into our work, and the results which can always be expected from men who are so full of 'Keep up the good work'."

When "Sell Now League" was recently organized by a number of powerful business leaders, it was inclined to sell. "It's easier said than done," is the motto of the league, as that given today have repeatedly been printed showing that it can be done when an adequate amount of intelligence, determination and faith are wholeheartedly put into it.

Have you not seen that the scarcest commodity of all in the United States and Canada, almost every second person, is the thing that is longed for, and if given an opportunity, starts a long line in New York and business men and business men are constantly harping on the same old string. If you were to swallow all that the position is, you, you might as well look your door and go out of business.

And yet the fact remains that, despite the very hard times, which have overtaken many people and particularly these unfortunate millions who have been thrown out of employment, there are many, many more business than ever before. You may not imagine, would you, that it could have been possible to do an unusual amount of business in such a condition as this? It has been a commodity as elusive as air, but that is what it is. It is the thing that is longed for, and if given an opportunity, starts a long line in New York and business men and business men are constantly harping on the same old string. If you were to swallow all that the position is, you, you might as well look your door and go out of business.

Herbert Hoover, the other day, gave a brief but excellent review for the real core of the business world is suffering from lack of confidence in our long-remembered secretary of commerce.

"We have passed through several depressions since the Civil War, and we have always found that the real core of the business world is suffering from lack of confidence in our long-remembered secretary of commerce."
